CHAIRMAN'S WELCOME

We hope you like this edition of AAC and that you have been able to enjoy a break since we last published 'AllAboutCleeve'.

The Changing Face Of Cleeve: Cleeve is gradually changing and I believe for the best! Firstly, I'd like to congratulate Cleeve and Claverham Stores for the impressive improvements made this Summer. Secondly, the building project next to the Alfresco's is nearing completion and finally, building work has now started by Tout's on the old Lord Nelson site. The improvements to Cleeve Village Hall will be completed this year with a new car park and new flooring at the rear of the hall. By the end of 2022, the village will look a very different place with the removal of the unsightly hoardings and the visual impact of new buildings.

Free 2022 Cleeve Calendar: We are collecting some lovely wildlife photos taken in and around Cleeve and still have time for a few more to add to our choice. Please do send them in to Ross (contact ross@mvbalmoral/com). New deadline 15 Sept 2021.We hope that with the help of some sponsors, we will be able to produce another free calendar.

What do all of the words in the subject line have in common? They summarise this year's amazingly successful Crafts and Cream Tea event!

Over the course of 6 weeks, Renate used 15 kg of flour to make countless scones and homemade treats, and through your generosity we were able to provide the following donations to local charities:

£1322 to the Children's Hospice Southwest £454 to Cancer Research UK £260 to the Weston Hospice

Wondering what we have planned next?

On 28-29 August, we will be selling our wood and things at the Oak Fair in Sturminster Newton, Dorset. From axe throwing to falconry, there's something for everyone in the family ... including a lot of great exhibitors!

The North Somerset Arts Week will be held 10-19 September. We'll be hosting our crafts at 3 Bishops Mead (BS49 4NH), and keep an eye out for the full listing of exhibits closer to the time.

We probably shouldn't be mentioning the C-word in August, but we are already planning to hold our Christmas Extravaganza throughout the whole of November. This is a great chance to find unique gifts and stocking stuffers for all your friends and family; watch your inbox for more information about how to book.

Thank you so much for your continued support, and we hope to see you at an event very soon!

TIPS FROM CLEEVE NURSERY

Remember to use bulb fibre rather than potting compost if the pots you use have no drainage holes. Make certain that the bulbs have made plenty of roots and that you can feel the flower bud in the shoot protruding out of the bulb before you bring them into warmth.

Plant strawberry 'runners' (plants). Take care to get the planting depth right! The crown of the plant should be half in and half out of the soil after the soil settles. Try some in grow-bags too.

If you'd like a distinctive face covering and support a local children's charity then visit: www.paulinemadethis.co.uk The total raised to date is around £2200 with nearly 700 sold - help me get to 1000!

They are £5.00 each

PLANT OF THE MONTH - NEMESIA

One of the most underrated, hardworking, low maintenance, long-lasting blooms you can plant is Nemesia.

With flower heads like mini snapdragons, the dainty petals exude delicious scent and shower you in a constant cascade of colour from late spring through to autumn, requiring very little attention apart from a weekly water and high potash feed.

Although often treated as an annual, with frost protection they will make it through winter as a short-lived perennial, so do not be too hasty to throw them on the compost heap at the end of season. Pop them in the greenhouse for next year.

These South African compact plants are ideal for containers, window boxes and hanging baskets and love basking in full sun. Ensure the soil is free-draining as Nemesia do not like soggy roots and can be prone to rot. Pop a little vermiculite or perlite in to peat-free compost and stand your pot off the ground to let excess water drain away.

There is an incredibly diverse choice of colour and scents.

N. 'Sundae Blueberry Ice,' N. 'Berries and Cream,' N. 'Easter Bonnet,' N. 'Lavender Sherbert,' N. 'Honey Dark Yellow,' N. 'Wisley Vanilla,' N. 'Vanilla Ice' and N. 'Rhubarb and Custard' with their bright bi-coloured magenta and orange/yellow hues are some of my personal favourites.

ALL ABOUT BEES

After the June gap of flowering plants the bees are ready for July, they are up to their full size. The hive is a crush of bees and to make space for both stores and comb for laying more eggs I will add extensions to the hive in the form of 'supers'. The main hive box is known as the brood box as this is there the queen will lay eggs. On top of this can be added supers, these are shallower boxes for storing honey. To stop the queen from laying eggs in the supers a 'queen excluder' frame is place between the two. The bars of the frame are wide enough to let the worker bees through but not the larger queen. The number added in total is dependent on the productivity of the colony and on a good colony in a good year 3 or 4 supers can be added.

NORTH SOMERSET ARTS WEEK 2021

Following a tough year for many people, including our talented local artists, the volunteers at North Somerset Arts are delighted to announce plans for North Somerset Arts Week 2021 which will take place from September 10th to 19th across North Somerset.

Award winning professional artists together with our talented NSA members will exhibit artworks and a wide range of contemporary crafts that will lift your spirits, providing a feast of colour and texture. Most work will be available for sale in approximately 30 Covid secure venues. Artists, designers, and craft-makers are keen to showcase their sumptuous creations made during the lockdowns and to share their enthusiasm and passion for their art with you.

Pick up our A5 leaflet at your local library, cafes and shops from the middle of August 2021 or download our Arts Week app to plan your visits to artists studios, shops and to heritage buildings hosting exhibits. All venues are free to visit, though we suggest phoning ahead for opening hours.

Look out for our posters and scan the QR code for the North Somerset Arts Week app. You can get in touch via Instagram, Facebook, Twitter and our website northsomersetarts.org Watch the local press for more details throughout the coming weeks.

VILLAGE HALL NEWS

Cleeve village hall was delighted to welcome back live entertainment in June with Kate McNab and John Telfer. Please see elsewhere in this magazine for news of other great forthcoming events.

In other news a number of the grassed areas of the hall grounds are being left 'a little longer' to encourage wildlife and pollinators and we hope to further improve the areas surronding the building with other planting taking place

Inside, the halls' storage area is being repainted and installed with new flooring and our very busy contractor should be starting the car park resurfacing later in the autumn Bookings continue to remain high and we always welcome enquiries from anyone concerning availability. See the contacts page for details

CLEEVE COMMUNITY RESILIENCE NEWS

With a large proportion of the population of North Somerset now having received one or two 'jabs' the work of the Community Resilience team has tailed off but several members have been helping our the wider community in different ways. These include the delivery of Oxygen (Oxi) meters to local people and supporting a local church based initiative. Our team, however, remain keen to help in any way possible with whatever the autumn and winter brings.

To that end we will continue to support and complement the work of the statutory agencies and local services. Steve and Ross are the local Community Resilience coordinators and their details are on the contact page of this publication.

Finally, a bit of preparatory work now can make the winter months easier to bear. This includes

Getting a flu jab

The normal preparation work around the house including maintainence of outside lights, paths and trip hazards (which can become more of an issue in poor weather) Boiler servicing and testing the central heating system

Ensuring that you have sufficient resilence in case of any power outages or cuts including torches (and good batteries) a charged mobile phone and a method of monitoring the local news (battery or wind up radio) Candles are not really recommended.

Contact details of those people you might need to call including local heath facilities, neighbours and friends

Work undertaken now (at your leisure) can provide peace of mind in the future Finally, stay well and stay connected with your local neighbors and friends. You may be able to help them (or them you!)

YATTON MUSIC SOCIETY AUTUMN CONCERTS

After eighteen months of live music depredation the Yatton Music Society is delighted to be hosting live quality concerts again at St Mary's Church, Yatton. For our Autumn season, concerts have been arranged with local talented musicians and we are fortunate to have engaged Laura Heathcote and Stuart Phippen who will launch our season with an inspired evening of violin and piano music. Laura and Stuart's concert will start of 7.30pm on September 25, ticket prices are £10 and the audience is assumed of a warm welcome and delightful music to recover normality.

Details of the concert can be found on the society's website www.yms.org.uk or contact David Ford daford220@gmail.com, tel, 01934 830255.

Saturday, September, 25 Laura Heathcote (violin)& Stuart Phippen (piano) 7.30pm, St Mary's Church

Laura and Stuart will be remembered from the beautiful music they played for St Mary's Meditation service during the winter lockdown. As a professional violinist Laura performs regularly across the UK. Having studied at the Royal college of music and the Royal Welsh college of music, Laura has gone on to perform at no.10 Downing Street, for united nation summits and at the royal Albert hall, amongst other venues. Laura has recorded for the BBC and for worldwide televised adverts, she regularly performs at weddings as a soloist and as part of her quartet, the Diamond string quartet.

A FARMERS VIEW - AUGUST 2021

In a normal year it's not all work for farmers and after the trials, tribulations and lockdowns of Covid I hope the second half of 2021 heralds the return to something like 'normal life'. Normally, through the summer there are plenty of agricultural shows to go to with a whole host of attractions. Come the autumn and the farming community starts to think about ploughing matches. Ploughing matches have been going for years. Consider the North Somerset Agricultural Society; in 2021 they are staging their 177th annual ploughing match. It will be held at Stepstones Farm near Wrington. As with many things, ploughing matches have evolved over time. The origins were very much about seeing which neighbouring or local farmer could plough their piece of land best. From there it developed into a more organised affair as in North Somerset with ploughmen travelling to a farm where all contestants ploughed together rather than on their own farms. The theory being that each competitor would have an equal chance of winning due to the soil being the same type, same level of moisture and ploughing out the same crop. It was down to the skill of the ploughman ploughing their 'Ben' of land rather than the field they were ploughing.

Going back to the mid-19th century and in the absence of tractors, all horsepower pulling ploughs would have been just that. Horses would have been 'turned out' with plaited manes and tails, and adorned with gleaming tack and horse brasses before being put to work in pairs. The objective was to turn over the whole of the allocated piece of land in the tidiest, most workmanlike fashion. The furrows ploughed needed to be straight and all the surface of the soil turned hidden from view to kill the weeds and other brash. As much as possible, the top of the ridge of soil needed to be level and ready to be cultivated thereafter. Moving into the 20th century and the horsepower started to be converted to mechanical horsepower in the form of tractors. The same objectives remained. However, the area to be ploughed was increased to reflect tractor power rather than just man and horse. The ploughing matches staged today are exactly the same. Still the tidiest, straightest, most workmanlike effort is awarded the prize for being best in class whether it's in the high cut, semi digger, reversible, vintage, horticultural or horse drawn class.

As well as ploughing skills being pitted, there is opportunity to show off the best of the summer's harvest. Depending on the area of the country there are often competitions for the best specimen roots, best quality grain, hay, silage and straw, handicrafts and much more. It's not just a ploughing match. It's a day of competing and showcasing rural skills. Above all, it's a day when anyone interested can come together and celebrate rural life. Covid permitting, this years match at Stepstones Farm will be staged on Sunday 5th September. Everyone is welcome.

FOCOS AFTERNOON TEA GET-TOGETHER Tuesday 21st September Cleeve Village Hall – 2.30pm

Following a discussion within FOCOS, we are pleased to announce that we are gently starting to get back into our events with an afternoon tea soiree, when we hope to welcome as many of our 'regulars' back for nibbles and a natter.

We will be in touch with our regulars, but if you are new to Cleeve and are aged over sixty, we would love to invite you to this event. So if we haven't been in touch and you would like to come along please ring us on 01934 838515. Lift are available for those in need.

We have decided that our mystery outings will recommence in 2022 when, hopefully, normality will be even more established.

A final note, to safeguard everyone who is attending or helping in any way, our invitations are to all those double-jabbed, or exempt for medical reasons.

TIP FROM CLEEVE NURSERY

Check cuttings of Fuchsias, Pelargoniums and other tender perennials for roots. If well rooted, pot them on into 9cm [3.5"] pots filled with good potting compost. If not, leave the potting until spring. There is still time to root more.

TIP FROM CLEEVE NURSERY

Get compost containers ready for the autumn clean up. Construct extra or purchase new ones before the leaves start to fall. Shredders are very useful and can turn most trimmings and modest prunings into useful mulching material. Plant shady borders and areas under large shrubs with small flowered Crocus, Scilla, Anemone blanda, Snowdrops and English Bluebells.
